

The Authors

Gábor EGRY earned his PhD in history at the Eötvös Loránd University in Budapest. He is currently a research fellow at the Institute of Political History in Budapest. His main research interest is the role of ethnic minorities in nation building in Central Europe. He focuses particularly on the economic self-organization and identity politics of Hungarian communities in the twentieth century, the Austro-Marxist conceptions of the nation, as well as the European Union as a new type of political community. His latest book, Az erdélyiség színeváltozásai [Transfigurations of Transylvanianism] (Budapest: Napvilág Kiadó, 2008), analyzes the regionalist attempts of Hungarian nationalists in Transylvania in the years 1940-1944, that often stood in tension with the centralizing national politics.

Mariana HAUSLEITNER is senior research fellow in the Institut für deutsche Kultur und Geschichte Südosteuropas at the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität, München and Privatdozent at the Osteuropa-Institut der Freien Universität Berlin. Her research interests are focused on specific issues of minority politics in Eastern Europe. She is the author of a major study on the consequences for minorities of the political transition in post-World War I Bukovina, Die Rumänisierung der Bukowina, (München: R. Oldenbourg Verlag, 2003). Her most recent monograph is Deutsche und Juden in Bessarabien 1814–1941. Zur Minderheitenpolitik Russlands und Großrumäniens, (München: IKGS Verlag, 2005).

Victor KARADY is professor at the History Department of the Central European University in Budapest and senior research director emeritus with the French CNRS, member of the Centre de Sociologie de l'Education et de la Culture of the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales in Paris. His research interests concern socio-historical problems of cultural assimilation, educational systems and social stratification. He is in charge of a large, three years long comparative survey on educated elites in ethnically mixed societies of East Central Europe (1900-1950) – Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Slovakia, Serbian Voivodina, Transylvania. (Advanced team leadership program of the European Research Council). Last book (edited with Peter Tibor Nagy): Educational Inequalities and Denominations. Database for Eastern Slovakia and North-Eastern Hungary, 1910. (Budapest: John Wesley Publisher, 2006).

Marius LAZĂR is associate professor at the Faculty of Sociology and Social Work, Babeş-Bolyai University, Cluj. His fields of interest are the sociology of intellectual elites, nationalism and ethnic relations, sociology of literature, cultural consumption and creative industries. He is currently conducting research on the topic of political networks and kinship ties among the Romanian ruling elite in the 19th and 20th Centuries. He is the author of Paradoxuri ale modernizării. Elemente pentru o sociologie a elitelor culturale românești [Paradoxes of modernization. Elements for a sociology of Romanian cultural elites] (Cluj-Napoca, Limes, 2002).

John NEUBAUER is professor emeritus of Comparative Literature at the University of Amsterdam and a corresponding Fellow of the British Academy (FBA). His publications include Symbolismus und symbolische Logik (1978), Novalis (1980), The Emancipation of Music from Language (1986), and The Fin-de-siècle Culture of Adolescence (1992). He has edited with Peter de Voogd The Reception of Laurence Sterne in Europe (2004), and is presently editing with Marcel Cornis-Pope a four-volume History of the Literary Cultures of East-Central Europe (three volumes to date), and with Zsuzsanna Borbála Török a volume on East-Central European Writers in Exile.

Cristian Sever OANCEA is a graduate of Babeş-Bolyai University of Cluj and holds an MA from the Central European University. Currently he is a doctoral student at the Wolfgang Goethe University (Frankfurt am Main), with a specialization in the history of the confessionalization and the shaping of confessional identity from the seventeenth until the nineteenth centuries. His research focus is in the history of the Lutheran and Greek Catholic Churches in Transylvania.

Judit PÁL is a senior lecturer at the Faculty of History and Philosophy of Babeş-Bolyai University of Cluj. She specializes in the history of the modern urban and social history of Transylvania. Her recent volumes include Városfejlődés a Székelyföldön 1750-1914 [Urbanization in the Szekler seats 1750-1914] (Csíkszereda: Pro Print, 2003), and Armeni în Transilvania. Contribuții la procesul de urbanizare și dezvoltarea economică a provinciei [Armenians in Transylvania. Their contribution to the urbanization and the economic development of the province] (Cluj-Napoca: Center for Transylvanian Studies, 2005).

Zoltán PÁLFY is a graduate of the Babeş-Bolyai University in Cluj, where he holds at present a position of lecturer at the Political Science Department. He is also MA and PhD graduate of the Central European University in Budapest with a dissertation published under the title: National controversy in the Transylvanian Academe. The Cluj/Kolozsvár University in the first half of the 20th century (Budapest, Akadémiai Kiadó, 2005). His research interests concern the social history of the Carpathian Basin, particularly as to higher learning in the context of antagonistic nationalisms.

Joachim von PUTTKAMER is professor of East European history at the Friedrich-Schiller-University in Jena. His fields of research include the history of nationalism, education and state-building in Central and Eastern Europe. He is the author of Schulalltag und nationale Integration. Slowaken, Rumänen und Siebenbürger Sachsen in Auseinandersetzung mit der ungarischen Staatsidee (München: R. Oldenbourg Verlag, 2003). Together with Peter Haslinger he has edited Staat, Loyalität und Minderheiten in Ostmittel- und Südosteuropa 1918-1941, (München, R. Oldenbourg Verlag, 2007).

Teodora Daniela SECHEL is a graduate of the Babeş-Bolyai University in Cluj and a doctoral student at the History Department of the Central European University, Budapest. Her research interests lie in the fields of social and intellectual history of medicine, especially in the role of science and medicine in shaping Enlightenment in Central and South-Eastern Europe. She has published a number of articles focusing on the “Medical Enlightenment” in the Habsburg realms, including “Health Care Reforms in Transylvania (1740-1830)”, Proceedings of the 40th International Congress for the History of Medicine Budapest: (2006), 21-36.

Borbála Zsuzsanna TÖRÖK is research coordinator at Pasts, Inc. Center for Historical Studies, Central European University, Budapest, where she also earned her doctoral degree in comparative history. She accomplished her undergraduate studies at the Babeş-Bolyai University in Cluj. Her research focuses on academic sociability, knowledge circulation, and the interrelation of the social sciences and literary fiction in East-Central Europe. She is currently editing a volume with John Neubauer on East-Central European Writers in Exile, and another one with Dietmar Müller and Balázs Trencsényi on recent historiography in Europe entitled Reframing the European Pasts: National Discourses and Regional Comparisons. (Thematic issue of the journal EAST CENTRAL EUROPE / L'EUROPE DU CENTRE-EST. Eine wissenschaftliche Zeitschrift vol. 34, nr. 1-2 (2009).
